Dear SRP,

I believe our communications - your newsletter and business card, my newspaper clipping and telegram - crossed in the mails. Please call me collect so that we can clear the air re the above. In case you've lost the telephone number in your travels: 866-6556

This is probably not appropriate, but it is such pleasant news I cannot resist. Christmas came early this year and a VCR has arrived. I've taped lots of foreign films already - Romy Schieders(sp?) last film "La Passante", Brazilian films and more. Also have the CMS and the Academy of Ancient Music live from Lincoln Center in stereo - this machine does it all. I love it, W. and all her friends love it. They may come for a super MTV+movies party over vacation. If they do, I may invite John so that he can see N.Y. through kids' eyes; I did promise John and Paul that they could come when W is at home so they can find out what NY is really like.

Concern For Quality at Depot

Hawley resident Bill Desmond, a Tobyhanna Army depot employee, has submitted the first quality slogan sign to be erected at the installation for an ongoing campaign to promote quality awareness in the depot workforce. Desmond, left, is an electronics-mechanic assigned to the Satellite Communications/Data Systems section. Pictured at right is depot commander, Col. Larry D. Bachelor.

QUALITY SLOGAN - Tobyhanna Army Depot employee Bill Desmond and depot commander Col. Larry D. Bachelor admire Desmond's quality slogan sign recently erected at the installation. His slogan was the first selected for an ongoing campaign to promote quality awareness in the depot workforce. Desmond is an electronics-mechanic assigned to the Satellite Communications/Data Systems Section. "We're involved in guaranteeing the quality of systems in the shop here," he says. "so when I saw the request for slogans I put my mind to coming up with one." A Navy veteran, Desmond has worked at Tobyhanna for two years. He is a Hawley resident. The quality awareness program is designed to assure that the depot continues to deliver quality products and services to Army field users.
